FOREWORD

“It is envisioned that this directory will contribute to further facilitating collaboration, information , experience and knowledge sharing between national childhood cancer related medical societies and childhood cancer patient support and advocacy organizations in Asia.

For both SIOP and CCI Asia, this will serve as a handy resource book and reference material on what their colleagues are doing in various parts of Asia . It will also be a tool to identify and build potential reference networks for treatment, care and cure of children / adolescents with cancer in Asia.”

Membership of International Children Cancer organization

- International BFM Study Group
- VIVA Working Group

Membership ~50 members including doctors, nurses, scientists and allied health professionals

Objectives To advance the interest in the knowledge of haematology and oncology in children, the endeavor to improve the standard of care of children suffering from blood diseases and cancers, and to promote child health in relation to haematology and oncology problems.

Goal To enhance the collaboration and communication among all centers, and to unify the treatment protocols and setting standard to provide better care to our patients.

Activities Our members are actively participating in many local, national and international clinical trials, including acute lymphoblastic leukemia (Interfant ALL Studies, EsPhALL Studies, IBFM IC 2002 ALL Study, CCLG 2008 Study, CCCG 2015 Study), acute myeloid leukemia (IBFM Relapsed AML Study, NOPHO 2002 Study, NOPHO 2012 Study), neuroblastoma (SIOPEN Study) and Ewing sarcoma (Euro-Ewing) , and continue to seek opportunity to collaborate with other international trials and studies in other disease conditions.

HKPHOSG holds regular monthly scientific meetings to discuss on interesting cases and updating on latest progress of our clinical studies, an Annual Scientific Workshop for our protocol review.

As more than 70% of children with cancer survive, approximately 60% of survivors are faced with various late effects as a result of their disease and its treatment, we have launched a long-term follow-up program to ensure systematic follow-up of survivors across all ages.
